Period Drama

This exquisite, classical garden designed by Matthew Leacy from Landart Landscapes, truly encapsulates the timelessness of a peaceful, green summertime with its lush foliage and delicate décor.

The manicured, shady trees create an air of enchantment in this garden enticing the inhabitants of the home to laze about under the welcoming shade, read a book, or simply have a nap soaking up the sunshine and beautiful atmosphere of their surrounds. The garden invites picnics to be had, gentle meanders to be taken and many children's games to be played in its park-like setting. Adding to this haven-like environment is the elongated, sparkling pool which neighbours an elegant courtyard paved with cream 600x300mm classic stone concrete pavers. These pavers serve as an entertaining area for the family and their guests, allowing for countless relaxing outdoor lunches and dinners by the pool.

Landart Landscapes' clients requested a design that reflected the timeless qualities and elegance of their house. In so doing, Landart complimented the tailored balls and box hedges with numerous free flowing plants. They also designed a parterre-style edible vegetable and herb garden to tie in with the rest of the property. The homeowners also desired something particularly special and breathtaking for the area visible from the main bedroom. Keeping this desire in mind, Landart created a breathtaking courtyard, which has become one of the most prominent features of the entire landscape. Recycled hardwood and a natural stone wall were used to create this feature, complimented by the deep green tones in the surrounding plants, beautiful water element and feature urn. This creation fulfilled the client's wish to be able to gaze out of their bedroom window and take in the dazzling view, whilst listening to the water feature's soft trickling. An old iron gate was placed at the side entrance of the property with the aim of heightening mood upon entry.

Leacy carefully chose plants that would create an elegant and tranquil environment. The Snow pear and Callery pear trees were implemented in this garden for their pleaching purposes, as well as for their beautiful blossom during springtime. Star jasmine was used to frame windows and provide a lovely, soft scent, stimulating the senses. To add to the free flowing look of the garden, Lavender and Poa were planted, while the lovely trees give the garden a wild and flowing appearance; the groomed lawns and hedges provide a more tidy, uniform look.

The homeowner's extreme passion for their garden was shared by Landart which allowed them to create an elegant, timeless masterpiece that both fascinates and entices.
